

COMMUNITY

Practice becomes a refuge we help create together.

RIM is not only a place to receive instruction. It is a sangha—a community of people learning how to meet life with awareness, compassion, and care for one another.

Community can feel vulnerable. You are welcome to come quietly and let belonging grow at its own pace.

It can be as simple as someone remembering your name, noticing when you have been away, or sitting beside you during a difficult season.

Shared practice

Regular meditation, teachings, retreats, and study create a rhythm that people can return to.

Spiritual friendship

Kalyana Mitta means “spiritual friend”—relationships that support honesty, learning, and wise care.

Care in action

Members welcome newcomers, tend the space, support programs, and bring practice into the wider community.

“RIM and this sangha is an exquisite gift of ever-growing well-being—to me and to every relationship and being I encounter.”

“After the first drop-in session, I knew I was home. The warm, welcoming community was where I wanted to grow my practice.”

“Right now the most I can offer is my presence.”

WAYS COMMUNITY CAN DEEPEN

There is no ladder to climb.

These are invitations, not levels of achievement.

Practice regularly

Drop-ins, daily meditation, study, and retreat

Become a community member

Shared agreements, deeper connection, and member resources

Offer time, care, or financial support

Specific ways to contribute when it feels natural

Rooted in Mindfulness

A welcoming Dharma community in Greater Milwaukee and online.
