

JOIN RIM

Participation can begin before belonging has a name.

You are welcome to attend a gathering without making a commitment. A free account simply makes online participation easier. Community membership is available when a deeper relationship feels honest.

WHEN YOU ARE READY

Become a community member

Membership is a way of naming a mutual relationship with the sangha. It includes community care agreements and opportunities for deeper participation.

- Shared commitments to care and non-harming
- Community communication and resources
- Ways to support and co-create RIM

COMMUNITY CARE AGREEMENTS

Belonging includes how we treat one another.

This prototype reserves space for the actual RIM agreements from the CMS. They should be written plainly, kept short enough to read, and presented before the membership form—not hidden behind a checkbox.

The agreements should address confidentiality, wise speech, respect for difference, boundaries, non-harming, and how concerns are brought forward.
